Jamaica's Net Remittances Declined in November, Amid Regional Growth

According to the Bank of Jamaica's (BOJ) Remittances Bulletin, net remittances decreased by 1.6% to US$246.4 million in November 2023 when compared to the US$250.2 million recorded in the same month in 2022. This decrease was the result of a 3.4%, or US$9.4 million, decline in total remittance inflows which was offset by a 20.4% or US$5.5 million, decrease in total remittance outflows. The decrease in total remittance inflows stemmed from lower inflows, from both remittances companies and other remittance channels. Similarly, net remittances for the fiscal year to date decreased by 3.2% or US$69.5 million to US$2,106.4 million, compared to US$2,175.9 million in the similar period last year.

Meanwhile, for the period January to November 2023, total remittance inflows to Jamaica totaled US$3,064.3 million. This result marked a 1.6% decrease compared to the same period in 2022. Jamaica's 1.6% decline stands in contrast to the increase in remittances observed in Guatemala, Mexico, and El Salvador for the corresponding period.

The United States of America remained Jamaica's largest source of remittances in November 2023, followed by the United Kingdom, Canada and the Cayman Islands, with respective ratios of 68.6%, 10.6%, 10.1% and 6.5%. Remittances from the United Kingdom surpassed those from Canada during November. Given the persistent uncertain economic landscape, tight liquidity conditions in the US and other source markets and escalating geopolitical tensions, it is anticipated that remittance growth may remain subdued into 2024.
