World Cup Drinkers Boost UK GDP, Easing Recession Risk

Britain's economy unexpectedly eked out some growth in November after a boost from World Cup drinkers and video game sales, reducing the chance that it has already slipped into recession. Nonetheless, the picture for 2023 remains gloomy. On Friday, figures from the Office for National Statistics showed that Gross Domestic Product (GDP) rose 0.1% from October, beating all forecasts in a Reuters poll of economists, which had pointed to a 0.2% decline. The growth surprise means that Britain will need to have experienced a sharp fall of around 0.5% in output for December, in order to record two straight quarters of falling GDP, which is the commonly used definition of recession in Europe. The world's sixth-biggest economy shrank 0.3% in the three months to the end of September, when output was hit by business closures to mark Queen Elizabeth's funeral.

The broader picture remains subdued. The Office for National Statistics said economic output in November was 0.3% lower than before the pandemic. In all other Group of Seven economies, output has surpassed pre-pandemic levels. Meanwhile, consumer price inflation hit a 41-year high of 11.1% in October and living standards are undergoing their biggest squeeze in decades. In November, the government's budget watchdog also forecasted that output would fall by 1.4% in 2023. High inflation has led to a wave of strikes by workers in the public sector and rail industry seeking bigger pay rises. Finance minister Jeremy Hunt said, "the most important help we can give is to stick to the plan to halve inflation this year so we get the economy growing again". The Bank of England (BoE) forecasted in November that inflation would drop to around 5% by the end of this year and investors expect the BoE to raise interest rates from 3.5% to 4% on February 2, as it seeks to stamp out underlying inflation pressures.

The Company's Jamaican operations continue to have a significant impact in the local marketplace through its Best Dressed Chicken and Hi-Pro divisions. With operations already firmly set in Haiti, JBG moved further to cement a stronghold and presence along the supply chain in the US with its recent acquisitions. Now a multinational entity, the Group is best described as a vertically integrated poultry business with operations spanning the full gamut of poultry rearing as a means for food production. In our view, these acquisitions and other inorganic initiatives are expected to be the catalyst for JBG's growth going forward.

SRF is an alternative investment firm that is solely dedicated to the real estate asset class, by providing customized financing solutions in various forms across the credit and equity spectrum. Through the application of flexible financing, and with careful screening, managing and assessment of its highly experienced Real Estate Investment Advisory Committee, SRF will seek to earn attractive risk-adjusted returns with downside protection. We believe that Sygnus Real Estate Finance's offers a good investment opportunity given the business model of active management, track record of the Investment Manager, robus governance structure and the pipeline of opportunities on the table. Given the present inflationary economic environment and market dynamics characterized by high we anticipate that real estate could continue to perform well as a leading growth sector.

However, PanJam is much more than real estate powerhouse. Its strategy is built on three main pillars: strategic equity, tradeabe securities and real estate. A key feature of this strategy is its investment portfolio which includes its over 30% stake in Sagicor Group Jamaica. Overall, the PanJam's investments are very well diversified, providing sector exposure to real estate, insurance, financial services, manufacturing, tourism and business process outsorcing services. Over the next few years PanJam will pursue strategies to continue to broaden its footprint accross the region and continue to deleiver great value for its shareholders.
